GCDS

The Global Church Network has forged strategic relationships with pastors and professors through the Global Church Divinity School. In the Global Church Classroom of the GCDS, powerful Assemblies of God Ministry tracks have been created for Certified, Licensed and Ordained levels. In order for you to take these courses, you do not have to stop what you are doing, relocate to a new city, or incur astronomical debt in order to receive high-level ministry training that will help you succeed in fulfilling your divine destiny. Through the GCDS, you have the opportunity to personally and professionally take 28 courses, plus up to three internships. You get to set the pace by which you take your courses.

In the summer of 2001, I was riding in the back of a public bus with two pastor friends, in Bangkok, Thailand. The late Dr. Bill Bright, Founder of Campus Crusade, gave me a short videoclip to watch on my handheld Palm Pilot. During this timeframe, we did not have smartphones. We carried a cell phone and then a personal organizer, like a Palm Pilot. Eventually, the cell phone and Palm Pilot were merged to become a Smartphone.

After I inserted the video chip into my Palm Pilot, I began watching this short video, while riding on the bus. Immediately, the Holy Spirit whispered twice: They will study like this one day. They will study like this one day." With that message in my heart, the GCDS was launched in January 2002. You now hold in your hands the opportunity to grow faster and go further in ministry than any previous generation. You can take your AG courses via computer, I-Pad or Smartphone.

Since you believe the Lord has called you into ministry service, you need to prepare yourself to fulfill your divine calling in this generation. The Lord has called you to find your role in His goal and your part in His heart!

The Global Church Network, in partnership with the Assemblies of God has provided dynamic learning tracks for the Certified, Licensed and Ordained levels. Each course consist of 15 lectures, approximately one hour in length each. In addition to the lectures, the ministry student receives a complete transcript of each lecture. Testing occurs at the end of each course. Students are encouraged to take copious notes, read the textbooks and study the word-by-word transcripts. As to Certified, Licensed and Ordained internships, these take place in the local church, under the mentorship of the pastor.

The Assemblies of God has chosen to denote three main classifications of ministry—the certified minister, the licensed minister, and the ordained minister. Ordination is the term used for the highest level of ministerial classification the Assemblies of God recognizes, a classification available to both men and women. All ministers are encouraged to progress to ordination.

LICENSED

The selection of spiritual leaders throughout Scripture is usually recognized in a public way that signifies the spiritual origins of the call. In the Old Testament, a formal anointing with oil, bringing with it the power of the Spirit, accompanied God's selection. Jesus purposefully drew the twelve disciples aside and appointed them to be apostles (Mark 3:13–19). Judas's successor was prayerfully and publicly chosen (Acts 1:15–26). When the seven deacons were chosen, the apostles prayed and "laid their hands on them" (Acts 6:6). Similarly, when the Spirit announced His choice of Paul and Barnabas for missionary service, the decision was followed by fasting, prayer, and the laying on of hands (Acts 13:2–3).

Paul's letters to Timothy, who represents a younger generation of ministers, imply a kind of formal ordination. At some unidentified point, Paul and a body of elders laid hands on Timothy to set him apart for the ministry. The work of the Spirit in Timothy's ordination is also noteworthy, "Do not neglect your gift, which was given you through prophecy when the body of elders laid their hands on you" (1 Timothy 4:14). Moreover, Paul continued to mentor his young colleague, reminding him to "fan into flame the gift of God, which is in you through the laying on of my hands" (2 Timothy 1:6).

ORDAINED

The practice of selecting and "ordaining" qualified elders, crucial to the success of the missionary churches, became a strategic step for Paul's ministry team. Following the pattern of his first missionary journey (Acts 14:23), Paul commanded Titus, charged with setting the churches of Crete in order, "appoint elders in every town" (Titus 1:5). Timothy, likewise, had as a part of his ministry similar tasks in the appointment and supervision of elders (1 Timothy 5:17–22).
